for many americans in the early 1960s vietnam was a far away place of which they had little knowledge soon thousands of young american men and women would find themselves on the other side of the globe fighting and in many cases living side by side with the vietnamese to lessen the culture shock the us department of defense prepared a publication along the lines of the instructions for servicemen issued in the second world war this rather unassuming pocket guide was designed to instil in the soldier an understanding of and respect for the vietnamese so as to gain their support in less than 8 000 words the author of the pocket guide creates a highly sympathetic account of vietnam s history culture politics infrastructure geography and people the author stresses shared values common to both the united states and vietnam viewed from the intervening distance of four decades this is a fascinating comment on the political aspirations of a former age it remains a compelling introduction to the enduring qualities of vietnamese culture the navy of the nuclear age 1947 2007 the fifth volume in the monumental u s navy warship series presents an all inclusive compendium of the ships that served in the u s navy from the cold war up through the present day featuring radical new developments in warships such as nuclear powered submarines and carriers equipped with ballistic missiles the post world war ii period was one of unprecedented technological growth for the u s navy the navy of the nuclear age contains specifications and illustrations for all the ships and submarines that have helped the u s to achieve its present day status as the country with the world s largest and most powerful navy a further article about paul silverstone and the navy warships series can be found at thejc com home aspxparentid m11s18s180 secid 180 aid 58892 atypeid 1

when john f kennedy was shot millions were left to wonder how america and the world would have been different had he lived to fulfill the enormous promise of his presidency for many historians and political observers what kennedy would and would not have done in vietnam has been a source of enduring controversy now based on convincing new evidence including a startling revelation about the kennedy administration s involvement in the assassination of premier diem howard jones argues that kennedy intended to withdraw the great bulk of american soldiers and pursue a diplomatic solution to the crisis in vietnam drawing upon recently declassified hearings by the church committee on the u s role in assassinations newly released tapes of kennedy white house discussions and interviews with john kenneth galbraith robert mcnamara dean rusk and others from the president s inner circle jones shows that kennedy firmly believed that the outcome of the war depended on the south vietnamese in the spring of 1962 he instructed secretary of defense mcnamara to draft a withdrawal plan aimed at having all special military forces home by the end of 1965 the comprehensive plan for south vietnam was ready for approval in early may 1963 but then the buddhist revolt erupted and postponed the program convinced that the war was not winnable under diem s leadership president kennedy made his most critical mistake promoting a coup as a means for facilitating a u s withdrawal in the cruelest of ironies the coup resulted in diem s death followed by a state of turmoil in vietnam that further obstructed disengagement still these events only confirmed kennedy s view about south vietnam s inability to win the war and therefore did not lessen his resolve to reduce the u s commitment by the end of november however the president was dead and lyndon johnson began his campaign of escalation jones argues forcefully that if kennedy had not been assassinated his withdrawal plan would have spared the lives of 58 000 americans and countless vietnamese written with vivid immediacy supported with authoritative research death of a generation answers one of the most profoundly important questions left hanging in the aftermath of john f kennedy s death death of a generation was a choice outstanding academic title for 2003 between 1945 and 1968 the possibility of mutual assured destruction led to a host of odd realities including the creation of an affable cartoon turtle named bert who taught millions of school children that nuclear war was survivable if they simply learned how to duck and cover meanwhile fear of communism played out against the backdrop of potential armageddon to provide justification for a variety of covert operations involving regime change political assassination and sometimes bizarre plot twists united states foreign policy 1945 1968 the bomb spies stories and lies takes a fresh look at this complex often confusing and frequently farcical period in american and world history whilst there continues to be a huge amount published about the us military s involvement in the vietnam war information about the early operations when the us remained in a primarily advisory capacity remains scant this extensive account originally written in 1965 provides a thorough examination of us and south vietnamese aviation operations conducted against the viet cong at night set against the context of the author developing a coherent doctrine for counter insurgency operations including mixed ground air components the account includes the personal experiences of the author from 1962 statistical analysis a discussion of the tools of the trade and thoughts about evolving a doctrine for counterinsurgency night air operations in vietnam contains a fascinating trove of information being particularly important as it was written on the cusp of a hugely increased us military involvement in that country and represents a real snapshot into the contemporary us view of how to combat the viet cong the text is supported by a number of charts graphs maps and a small selection of photographs a chronological arrangement of the conflict beginning with prehistory to the present includes sixty brief biographies of major political and military figures the first major synthesis of the war since 2001 drawing upon a host of newly declassified documents presidential tapes and overlooked foreign sources to give the most comprehensive look to date of the war that still haunts america this publication covers the chronological evolution of uniforms equipment and weaponry issued to the american soldier during the first years of the conflict from 1962 to 1967 a second volume will cover the 1968 to 1975 period all of the uniforms and equipment shown are period however some of the weapons are replicas in the aim of depicting characteristic servicemen at given periods a great deal of research was undertaken in order to guarantee coherence between the units dates and geographical situations differing from other publications the author has deliberately chosen to illustrate all types of service personnel rather than solely combatants in order to give an exact presentation of the american military during this period indeed it should be remembered that 85 of service personnel in vietnam were support troops and advisors the despatch of troops to assist the u s a in vietnam divided the country enraged a generation and forced the government to publicly defend its foreign policy this detailed study starts with the first indochina war in the 1950s and covers the story of new zealands relations with vietnam up to the end of the vietnam war in the 1970s it explores the diplomatic history of the engagement which is not well known or understood and shows that officialsand politicians in fact entered the war with extreme reluctance the fifteen eyewitness commentaries on u s naval operations in vietnam that form the core of this essay collection represent the first serious attempts to describe the naval side of the war

cmh pub 91 6 united states army in vietnam covers the united states buildup in vietnam from every angle strategy operations tactics logistics inter service relations personnel policy diplomacy civil relations and the handling of the news media to show how the military assistance command vietnam macv developed and became the linchpin holding the entire american effort in vietnam together this text explains that government and media first shared a vision of american involvement in vietnam but as the war dragged on government press releases were challenged by reports from the field
